Sacramento, CA—Take the work out of planning your next getaway with the California Bed & Breakfast Inns 2009 Travel Guidebook, just released by the California Association of Bed & Breakfast Inns (CABBI).

The full-color, 180-page California Bed & Breakfast Inns 2009 Travel Guidebook is the largest resource for bed and breakfast travel information in California. It is the perfect planning companion, full of helpful B&B travel information, local history and attractions for anyone planning a California vacation.

“Even in this information age, travelers still love to have a book in their hands,” said Elaine Bryant, innkeeper and owner of The Elk Cove Inn & Spa in Mendocino County.

Carefully designed with the bed and breakfast traveler in mind, the guidebook is a great choice for both the devoted B&B traveler or anyone interested in exploring a boutique hotel experience.

The guidebook features detailed regional maps and expanded inn listings with full-color photos of nearly 300 quality-certified CABBI properties. Travelers can quickly access information on boutique hotels, historic Victorian mansions, country cottages, beachfront retreats, and unique settings like boat and farm stays. They'll also find helpful details such as business-friendly inns, and those that accommodate children, pets and bicyclists.

“Our customers told us that the guidebook is still the easiest way to research and plan a trip in California – and this gives travelers an attractive and useful resource that presents hundreds of options at their fingertips,” said CABBI Program Manager Katherine Davis. “Best of all, travelers are getting a great value – especially when compared to bookstore prices.”

Priced at $10 (includes shipping and handling), the guidebook can be ordered online at www.cabbi.com. Guests of CABBI member inns receive a complimentary copy upon departure.
